withdraw from the National Manufacturers' Association, when that body showed its evident intention to attach fiself to the McKinley boom," I regret exceedingly that you should have fallen into the error of regarding the National Association of Manufacturers as an organization formed for political purposes. It has been the constant endeavor of those who have been active in the organization and management of this association to make it clearly understood that this is not an association of any political affiliations. It is simply an organization of business men for business purposes. They are associated together for the purpose of extending and widening the avenues of trade and commerce and for removing the obstnoles in the way of fair competition in our own markets and for improving the conditions governing our trade with other countries. Every question with which this association has to deal is considered from a purely husiness and practical standpoint. It is our aim to represent every class of manufacturing interest without regard to political views or sectional lines. Those who have induced the local association in St. Louis to withdraw from the national organization were probably honest and sincere in the course they followed, but, like many others, they misinterpreted the character and the purposes of the National Association of Manufacturers.

I believe that nearly every object which this association has in view has the hearity support of every intelligent manufacturer, no matter what his political views may be. Permit me to deny most emphatically that this "loody showed its evident intention to attach itself to the McKinley boom" or to ally itself with any other political movement.

Str. or should I venture to call you dear husband-I received your letter harder than I thought, but still not so hard as I deserve, conthe provisions of the Civil Service laws of the State and subordinates thereunder should be the state of the sta How feasuring it all rings! The calumniated boss an apostic of the merit system, who dare traduce him now? But hearken further. The strains cease not, there is another verse:

"It was evidently the intent of the Legislature in draughting special agents as well as providing for a Deputy Commissioner and special deputies for cities of the first class, to bring the deputies, employes and agents contemplated by the law within the terms of rule 5 of the Civil Service rules of the Stafe."

The import- of this last is veiled behind a reference. And why concealed? Because the blessed "Rule 5" exampts "the deputies, employes and agents contemplated" (this hodre over purveyors) from the sulutary restriction of contemplative examination. Their owner may course, I expect that when I am gone, especially from your own people, who always had an edge on me, and for no reason. Then you could hardly blame me telling the untruth about Queenstown, and you might have done the same ind you been in my place, for my whole thoughts were to get back to you and my children. If you are determined on getting a divorce, of course he will be only too glad to marry me, as I know he always really loved me, and you may depend upon it I shall lead a good, religious life by the help of God.

The Lords decided that Griffin had made Dear Sir-Why don't we have a regulated legal out his case, but it is interesting to know that he was obliged to patiently and laborlously save the large sum of bundreds of pounds in order to procure his divorce JULIAN RALPH, in this way.
